in Chile

The 27th National show in Chile was held on March 30 and 31, once again at the beautiful Santiago Paperchase, an equestrian club located on the outskirts of the exciting capital city of Santiago.

2019 Chilean National

This year's highlight was a showground designed to consider the location's sun exposure and better audience comfort and horse presentation. While the showground may have changed, the hospitality shown in welcoming breeders and visitors remained the same. After the trials, breeders' homes and stud farms held pleasant evening soirées with the same fraternal spirit as always. This year, breeder José Miguel Bulnes hosted a lavish dinner on Saturday on behalf of his family and Haras Panquehue. On Sunday, Nicolas Duch, president of the Breeders Association, welcomed everyone to his beautiful home on behalf of Haras Llancay.

Chile has a long history of Arabian Horse breeding, something that South American countries have in common. In the 1860's, almost every region's breeding was strongly influenced by horses imported from the United States. Some countries aimed to invigorate their horse troops, essentially comprised of a long line of Argentinian and Uruguayan pedigrees originating from Turkey, Syria, Hungary and Spain. Other countries aimed to create new breeds. Descendants—mainly from Polish lines Bask and Aladdin, Egyptians Ruminaja Ali and El Hilal, Spanish-Egyptian El Shaklan, Russians Padron and Muscat and domestic Americans Bey Shah and Khemosabi—populated hundreds of farms, producing an extraordinary clash of bloodlines. The current Chilean breed was created during that magical moment and its bloodlines were developed with extraordinary proficiency that remains in its selection program. Along with this rich genetic heritage, Chileans are introducing new bloodlines, achieving results that make them and Brazil the two leading Arabian Horse breeders in South America.

Mare Championship: The Brazilian influence

One can clearly see the influence that Brazilian breeding has over Chilean breeding in almost all the country's Championship results, but what really matters is that Chilean breeders are creating excellent breeding programs thanks to this influence.

This is the case of the National Champion Gold Mare Lumiar Ethna, bred by Haras Lumiar of the Brazilian Antônio Carlos Rego and owned by Haras Panquehue of the Bulnes family and Haras Aguas Claras by Herman Chadwick. Her first daughter, HP Gloriosa Power was Gold Champion in two previous Nationals. Ethna brings great concentration at Bey Shah's bloodlines. His first two male offspring were Brazilian and Chilean Nationals Winners: Aziz MAM, was Gold Yearling 2017 and Jr. Colt 2018, and HP Almudena, winning Jr. Filly at the 2018 at Chile.
