

Where The Stars Are Born....

The Scottsdale Arabian Horse Show 2013

After 58 years, 2013 Scottsdale Arabian Horse Show was a record-breaking event. This year, 2400 horses competed in over 700 classes, and were watched by over 300,000 spectators throughout the 11 days of the show. In addition, the ground-breaking internet live-feed of the show provided by iEquine had over 100,000 viewers in 85 different countries from around the world. It is difficult to comprehend that this enormous and highly successful show is in fact organized by a very small but efficient committee, that is supported by a very large group of dedicated and generous volunteers. The Scottsdale Arabian Horse Show is a non-profit event that uses its revenue to support charities and other non-profits. It seems that this group is doing everything right, because the Scottsdale Arabian Horse Show is frequently cited as a role-model for other shows. This show claims it offers 'something for everyone', and it always delivers.

This may be a record year, but it's no surprise. There is no other Arabian show like this in the world, and for many breeders this is the event they work towards. The coveted titles available at Scottsdale are the makings of new stars and the affirmation of established champions – for many, Scottsdale is the gauge for the industry. The highly competitive Halter division has more entries than any other Arabian horse show in the world; at this year's show 1200 entries were there to vie for the coveted award of Scottsdale Champion. The event itself is global in scale, welcoming breeders, trainers, farms, horses and horse-enthusiasts from all over the world. Every year attendees comment on the international feel on the grounds as they hear multitudes of dialects and meet people from across the world.

The show is held at 'West World', a substantial equine facility that hosts horse shows in Scottsdale throughout the year. Set to a backdrop of the beautiful McDowell Mountains, the Sonoran sky remained cloud-free for the majority of the show's ten days; with temperatures sitting comfortably in the 70's (21°C). Such a feast for the eyes, every corner of the grounds brimming with the most beautiful Arabian horses – trained and groomed to perfection, 'living art' in the flesh.

The first Saturday of the show hosted the Scottsdale Breeders Classic International Classes for a field of almost 200 entries. The quality was amazing and the day crowned some of the best horses from around the world.

The day was sponsored by the SF Veraz, a stallion bred and owned by Scheier Farms.

Youth Classes

The youth classes were held during the first days of the show. The Scottsdale Show provides wonderful, competitive opportunities for these young people who are the future of our breed. Genuine contenders graced the arenas, which made for wonderful viewing. The youth riders were honored on the first Thursday evening with a party on the grounds. The youth classes were overflowing with amazing horses and their very talented riders. The Scottsdale Show youth portion of the show draws the best competitors in the world and this was evident at the 2013 Scottsdale Show.

Performance

Scottsdale is the showcase for talented Arabian horses to perform at their full potential. This year there were over 5500 entries in the performance division to include English, Western, Hunter, Jumping, Reining, Sport Horse, Driving and Cow Classes. Chris Culbreth of Culbreth Equine Training and Management commented, "This year's Scottsdale Arabian Horse show offered some of the highest quality performance classes I have ever seen or competed in. The tough competition started with the youth weekend and ran right through the show, culminating with the excitement of the Signature Performance Western Futurity".

SCOTTSDALE SIGNATURE STALLION AUCTION & CLASSES

The immense success of the Scottsdale Signature Stallion (SSS) program has turned it into one of the most enjoyable and anticipated competitions of the Scottsdale Show. There are 165 nominated Scottsdale Signature Stallions. Their breeding services are offered at the Signature Stallion Auction held on the Thursday night of the show. This year, the SSS Auction was held in a fabulous venue on the Equidome at the WestWorld grounds. A beautiful and expansive marquee was constructed exclusively for that evening. It was filled with an international group of enthusiastic Arabian horse breeders who were looking forward to being a part of this exciting breeding program. Just one breeding for each Signature Stallion is available at the auction, so bidding was very fast and entertaining. The prize monies make this a program that everybody wants to be a part of and there are several ways to participate.

One of the most important aspects of the SSS program, and one that the Scottsdale Show organizers are most proud of, is how the SSS program has created wonderful opportunities for amateurs to actively participate in one of the most prominent competitions in the Arabian horse industry. All horses competing in the SSS Auction Classes, as well as the regular SSS Classes, must be shown by an amateur handler.

Perhaps the most exciting and lucrative way to participate in the Signature Stallion program is to purchase a stallion service at the auction. Foals produced from these auctioned breedings are exclusively eligible to compete as yearlings in the Signature Stallion Auction Classes. In addition, they can also compete and win prize money in the regular Signature Stallion Classes. This makes these SSS Auction offspring eligible to win the most prize monies.

Another way to participate is to breed a mare to a Scottsdale Signature Stallion outside of the auction. You can nominate this mare so that the resulting foal is eligible for the regular Signature Stallion classes, which also offer substantial prize monies. Janice McCrea Wight, Director of the Scottsdale Signature Stallion program commented, "These classes were substantial this year and the quality was incredible. Some of the best horses at the show were contenders in the Signature Stallion events". There were as many as 90 horses in one class, and in such cases, classes were divided into sections to help facilitate presenting and judging the horses in the arena.

Scottsdale Arabian Classic Halter Classes

The versatility, strength, and character of the Arabian horse was celebrated in the many performance classes throughout this show. In the Signature Stallion classes and Scottsdale Arabian Classic classes, we had the chance to view the magnificent beauty that is the Arabian horse, and watch them being judged on their conformation. Championship Weekend Championship weekend at the Scottsdale Show is simply magical. There's a feel on the grounds and a thrill in the air as superstar Arabians take their well-earned place in the spotlight to vie for the trophy they came for. Everyone has their favorite that they are ready to cheer for, but it is true to say that there is an affection within the Arabian community that is ever-present. Regular attendees and exhibitors are part of an extended family of people who share a passion for these gorgeous horses, and they look forward to meeting up annually at Scottsdale where, inevitably, they know everyone will be. It's a great assembly of old friends.

Regulars have also come to expect one of the most beloved Championships on the final Saturday – the Platinum Performance $5000 Liberty Class. What could be more beautiful than releasing exquisite examples of the Arabian horse into the large central arena, and watch them move, in a way that only Arabs can, around the ring. The winner of the $5000 Championship prize went to MS AMBER AFIRE, a stunning mare that stole the hearts of the crowd and judges. The whole class provided for wonderful entertainment – with the music playing, it was a party atmosphere and all eyes were on the arena.

The night also included the popular $5000 Mounted Native Costume Championship, which was won by LLC PARKER ridden by Julie Daniel-Adams. One other anticipated class of the evening was the Farnam Gamblers Choice where horses and their riders compete for points on a jump course. There are about 10 jumps and points are allocated depending upon difficulty, with fixed times are allotted. Such a fun class for observing the Arabian's strength, stamina, and courage. Monetary prizes are available for the Top 10 contenders; and the first prize of $4750 for the second year in a row went to Ability owned by Greg and Nancy Schafer.

The Scottsdale Arabian Horse Show – Something For Everyone

There's nothing like the Scottsdale Show to truly showcase the versatility and beauty of the stunning Arabian horse. The show has a reputation for attracting visitors from all walks of life to visit the grounds; through their 'something for everyone' appeal. The mission statement of the Board of Directors and show staff is to promote the noble breed, the Arabian Horse – and they do it like no-one else does.

Three substantial tents housed over 300 hand-picked vendors and offer a 'shoppers paradise'. Reita Lathrope organizer of the commercial exhibitors comments, "We have the best selection of vendors at any horse show I have ever been to and we are very proud of our shopping Expo". Such a wide variety of booths alongside a diversity of food vendors, catering to every type of food preference, kept visitors busy. One day is certainly never enough to see and experience everything on the grounds.

The show also hosts a 'Free Family Friday' to kick-off Championship weekend. They host a kids day during the first weekend, with their party for the youth riders on the Friday night and free 'paint a pottery pony' on Saturday morning followed by a free ice-cream social for children at the show. By creating a wonderful day-out for all the family, the Scottsdale Show is certainly responsible for increasing an awareness and love for the Arabian breed.

This year, an unprecedented average line of 500 people awaited the on-ground barn tour operators. Each year, volunteers manage guided tours of the multitude of gorgeous, decorated barns that make their temporary home at West World during February. Each one is the front door to a business, and farm owners want to ensure they put their best foot forward as people enter their facility and view their horses. A guided viewing of these barns is enjoyable to anybody – horse-lover or not.

Off-site, Scottsdale is home to some of the most prestigious farms in the Arabian Industry and every show day, you can bet there's a party somewhere in the Scottsdale Arabian community! Welcoming visitors from far and wide, the gates and doors are unlocked and the tables are laid out festively – hospitality is enjoyed and horses are shown. For many, the Scottsdale Show is a place to come to make breeding decisions. The show grounds are filled with many of the most beautiful Arabians in the whole world, and outlying farms display some of the most successful breeding programs and stallions known. Whether buying horses or looking for breeding ideas, February in Scottsdale offers a one stop shop. Executive Director of the show, Taryl O'Shea commented, "People love Scottsdale. Whether buying horses or breedings, February in Scottsdale offers it all. There is no place else on earth you can go to see thousands of the best Arabian horses in industry. We look forward to another great show next year!".
