

Celebrating 50 Years of Excellence

SCOTT'S

DALE 2014

There is not another Arabian horse event in the world that can compare to the Scottsdale All Arabian Horse Show. Many will argue and say it is the best - I happen to think so - but everyone must agree it is without a doubt the biggest. Bigger is not always better - except at Scottsdale where we can see more Arabian horses than any place on earth.

There is something almost magical about Scottsdale. I believe it is the unique combination of Arabian horses and people from around the world; breeders, owners, trainers, youth and amateur competitors and thousands of people who support our community all getting together to celebrate our love of the horse!

There are many ways to enjoy the Arabian horse at the Scottsdale Show. Owners and trainers compete in 11 days of classes ranging from Halter, English, Hunt, and Western Pleasure, Show Hack, Dressage, Carriage, Sport Horse, Jumping, Reining, Working Cow and the newest addition of Team Penning - and more! Competitors give it their all with the hope of earning a top prize at one of the most prestigious Arabian horse shows in the world.

The Scottsdale show has enjoyed global appeal for many years. This year - more than ever - the show was truly an international event. There were a record number of show entries and visitors from all parts of the globe.

Among the most popular Halter classes of the Scottsdale show are the International Arabian Breeders Classics. These classes use an international group of judges who evaluate the entries with a modified European judging system, which awards points in specific categories.

The judges for the 2014 Internationals Arabian Breeders Classic classes were Marie Louise Van Wyk of South Africa, James Constanti of the United States, Irina Stigler of Russia, Steve Dady of the United States and Majdi Al Salah of Jordan. In addition to their class winners, the judges placed Gold, Silver and Bronze Champions from the Junior Fillies and Colts, as well as Senior Mares and Stallions.
