These are the months of warming passing from the cold of the winter to warmer temperatures of summer. Not only the weather is warming! The temperature of the show world in terms of excitement is growing. Many of the shows in this period of the year will be crucial for some champions who will participate in the World Championship in Paris.

The Israeli Arabian Horse Festival 2018, at its first edition, was a first class show for its elegance and the flawless way its organizers managed it.

Israel Arabian Horse Trust was founded by a group of breeders and Arabian horse lovers.

From red ground the founders created the great Equestrian Center where the Arabian horse show was held. Green fields, hundreds of boxes, paddocks for jumping, one covered arena and a very good restaurant are the features that attract people, horse lovers, families and visitors who want to spend time here for sport or just to relax.

The Center hosted the Israeli Arabian Horse Festival on 20th & 21st April in a lavish atmosphere offering to the guests an excellent show.

The Horse quality was very high. The remarkable number of entries, 123, told about the need to have a place close to Tel Aviv where hosting horse events.

The judging and managing system used for the first edition of the show was taken from the Ecaho Blue Book even if the show is not Ecaho affiliated yet.

Judges were: Mr. Michael Byatt (USA), Mr. Willie Brown (South Africa), Mrs. Tracey Austin (UK) and Mr. Santiago Fornieles (Argentina). DC: Mrs. Christine Keyser (Norway), Ringmaster Mr. Mateusz Jaworski (Poland).

TuttoArabi was the Media partner and Arabian Horse Results managed the streaming.

In the ring our photographer Mr. Alessio Azzali and Mr. Bar Hajaj.

Enjoy the pictures from the show and the interview with the association's Chairman, Mr. Hussein Awad.

A special warm thanks goes to Mr. Tzach Halak and to his father Mr. Avraham Halak, tireless protagonists of the show. □

INTERVIEW WITH

Mr. Awad Hussein

On the visit to Israel on the occasion of the Arabian Horse Trust show first edition TuttoArabi made an interview with the Association's chairman, Mr. Awad Hussein.

TA: Here we are inside a brand-new venue in Rishon Lezion, close to Tel Aviv. The new Equestrian Centre is surely the result of a project made by Arabian breeders and lovers. Can you tell us and our readers how the idea started?

AH: We are first of all Arab horse breeders, and are moving around the world to exhibitions including Europe, so we wanted to move forward and look as good as the rest of the world, hence the idea of establishing and raising a new non-profit organization

TA: The great investment made by you will surely paid back by the affluence of people who will pass time and relax in this wonderful Equestrian Center during their holidays and week ends. Which are the features and the services offered by the Center in addition to the restaurant and a lot of green space dedicated to the horses?

AH: It will be a very large recreation area for all members of the family so that there will be new facilities for children and a large horse farm for riding restaurants and green area and will be a small hotel for future accommodation

TA: Tell us about the Association Arabian Horse Trust. When and why did you gave birth to this new association for horses?

AH: I am not alone. We are a group of Arab horse breeders. We decided to set up the organization because we are fed up with the existing association due to irregularities in its conduct and legal complaints against it, so we can not allow ourselves to be part of an illegal desert.

TA: What's your goal?

AH: Our goals are to promote all sports in general and related to the Arabian horse. We have a policy detailing the objectives of the organization, which is entirely for the benefit of the breeder, in terms of costs in all that entails the growth of the Arab horse.

TA: Are you planning to introduce the Association to Europe visiting it and trying to obtain the authorization by Ecaho in order to have Ecaho judges?

AH: As of now, this is our first goal. It is clear that it includes all the obstacles that the existing Amuta is doing against us, since they are not interested in doing so.

TA: TuttoArabi is proud to be here for the first edition of this show and promote your show and Association all around the world. What's next appointment?

AH: We thank you very much for coming and we appreciate you very much. We are now preparing for the next exhibition to be held in July, as well as other very important events for the Arab horse, such as judging courses by the breeders about the Arab horse in general.

TA: Are you planning to organize also a Straight Egyptian show?

AH: It is clear that we are very appreciative of the Egyptian horse here in Israel and we have the leading farms in the world in this industry, such as the Ariela Arbians Ranch, Kobi Shiransky and many others who hold the best horses of this kind on an international level. □
