The Arabian Horse joined Expo Grande between April 23 and 24, in Campo Grande, State of Mato Grosso do Sul, one of the largest agricultural fairs in Brazil, which stirred around US$ 100 million with the trading of cattle, horses and farm machinery.

Located in the Midwestern Brazilian State of Mato Grosso do Sul, slightly larger than Germany, which has one of the largest cattle herds in the country and is a major grain producer. However, it is worldwide famous for its biodiversity. The Pantanal complex and Serra da Bodoquena National Park are two areas of great natural beauty that attract tourists from all over the world.

The Arabian Horse was part of the colonization of the State. The Brazilian Army, which strategically cooperated in pioneering the area, created, in their stud farm, Thoroughbred Arabian horses, which provided stallions for the farmers to improve their work troops.

Grande

The raising of such horses is traditional in the region and ExpoGrande Arabian Show is the greatest expression of the breed in the State. The breeders develop very specific programs which often achieve national and international success. This year, in the exhibit opening, Haras Engenho, property of Laucídio and Inês Coelho, welcomed the breeders to present their new imported stallions: Primeiro Marc, imported from Poland in a leasehold, and Thee Apprentice (by Versace), imported from Belgium. Apprentice is part of a partnership between Haras Engenho, Meia Lua, property of Lenita Perroy, and Morab, property of Benedito Morato.

Exactly 92 horses were taken to the tracks to be judged by Gary MacDonald from the USA. He made EZ Wajid Halston the Champion Stallion, and Monna El Hylan the Champion Mare of ExpoGrande Arabian Show.

*EZ Wajid Halston is a breeding of Ueze Zahran from Haras El Zahran and belongs to Raquel Robaldo from Estância Mita Porã. He is the grandson of Padrons Psyche through Halston, imported by Polé Levy. The Champion's mother – EZ Sihr El Chall – is one of the beautiful daughters of Don El Chall.
