All Nations Cup

After two years of absence due to covid, the All Nations Cup Aachen was back on the calendar this year and everybody was looking forward to this most fantastic show of the year.

The All Nations cup has been THE show of the year since many years. The idea of organizing a show that extended beyond Europe came from Mrs. Annette Hedley and would be open to all studbook accepted by the WAHO. The first Silver cup for the Nations Trophy, to be awarded to the nation that owned the best horses at the show, was sponsored by Lady Harmsworth Blunt whose husband was one of the co-founders of the UK Daily mail newspaper. This Daily Mail trophy was later re-named as The Lady Harmsworth Blunt memorial Trophy, after her death in 1992.

Later, in 2001, Annette and Ian Hedley and The honorable Mrs. Mary Ann Wragg developed the idea of the breeders cup to the nation that bred the best horses at the show.

This newly created challenge trophy is a beautiful bronze created by the American artist, Mrs. Karen Casper, depicting a purebred Arabian mare lowering her head protectively towards her new-born-foal lying on the ground. This valuable bronze is a challenge trophy which is passed on at each Nations Cup Show to a new winner. The winner in addition receives a bronze plaque which depicts the mare and foal in relief.

Shortly after the realization of this idea and the completion of the bronze, Ian Hedley, many years general secretary of WAHO, died. In his honor this new prize has been named "Major T.W.I. Memorial Trophy".

The first shows were held in the UK, Sweden and Spain. Although the idea was to host the event in a different country each year, the All nations cup got it's resident in Aachen in 1987.

Later, dressage and jumping competitions were also added to the Nations Cup.
