It's almost noon, the sand is leveled, tables are waiting for guests, and the participants in the tenth edition of the AHO Breeders' Egyptian Championship are ready for the show in the beautiful Rabab Stud, Cairo, Egypt.

Reaching the Rabab stud farm is a journey through centuries of human history, as the trip gives the opportunity to admire the magnificence of the pyramids of ancient Egypt on the way. But it is also a welcome into the modernity of an ever-developing stable, with its paddocks surrounded by palm trees and desert sand that gives its color to the stables. Here, grooms care for the horses and prepare them for the show, while the handlers seek the right concentration to get started.

When the time comes, the judges take their places in the arena: Scanzi Fausto, Al Mukhtari Khali, Al Mehyawi Majed, Al Khamis Mohammed, Sharawi Ali, Saad Sami Mohamed.

The show begins with the Yearling Fillies, followed by two categories of Junior Fillies and the Senior Mares. Throughout the afternoon, guests and audiences arrive, and the atmosphere becomes increasingly friendly. As beautiful animals walk and show themselves in the arena, people hug and smile among the tables, old friends get together and chat, and the noise goes up as people become more enticed. Soon the tables are filled with plates and desserts, as the scent of cardamom coffee wafts through the air.

The same atmosphere welcomes guests on day two, when the Yearling Colts, Young Colts and Senior Stallions classes are held, and then on day three, the long-awaited Championships. This last afternoon is filled with excitement, public support increases in every category, and breeders begin to celebrate and embrace each other in front of their horses' performances.

The suspense mounts late in the afternoon as we await the Senior Stallions, but first a grand light show celebrates this tenth edition of the AHO Breeder's Egyptian Championship, and then the elegant awards are presented to the breeders, sponsors and all the people who made this show possible.

This joyful atmosphere leads us all through the end of the show, to the moment when the names of the champions are discovered, and continues during the final dinner graciously offered by Khaled Bin Laden, the patron of Rabab Stud, in the elegant and cozy annex where we all have the chance to say goodbye, and see each other next year.
