A lifelong horse lover, artist, and Arabian horse breeder since 1979, photography was never a consideration in my list of possible occupations. An English/journalism/art teacher by profession, I had dabbled in web site design for a time, but only after I was unable to find a photographer to shoot a client's horses in November of 2006 did I pick up a camera. Always a late bloomer, I discovered THIS was my passion!

What a wonderfully exciting way to combine my love of horses and art - and so much faster than drawing or painting! I have been fortunate to have opportunities to photograph some stunning horses in the 5 1/2 years since, and I learn something new about my camera or the editing process almost every day. Still, my love of the Arabian horse's magnificent beauty and spirit is what guides me. My goal is, and has always been, to capture the unique spirit and character of each horse in front of me - and that is what I strive to do.
