The Sea

*I*ncreasing human populations have resulted in increased human impact on ecosystems. Human activities has resulted in an increased extinction rate of species which has caused a major decrease in biological diversity of plants and animals in our environment

"Covering over two-thirds of our blue planet, the ocean makes it habitable. it is the source of our freshwater and of half the oxygen we breathe; it also influences our climate and weather. Our ocean provides food, medicine, and mineral and energy resources. It supports a multitude of life forms and shapes the Earth's characteristics". We have to preserve the ocean to give our future generation the best of human ... avoiding conflicts for next generation.
